

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention is a method and apparatus for monitoring the condition of a cable in a human power amplifying lift system. The method and apparatus
5 employ a cable slack sensor and a cable end sensor to override and prevent the lift from continuing to unwind the lift cable when slack or and end of travel limit has been reached.